

The mood is often created through the setting, the attitude of the narrator or through the tone and diction of the narration.

MOOD

In literature, mood is a literary element that evokes certain feelings or senses in readers through words and descriptions.

"“You know that feeling,” she said, “when you are reading a book, and you know that it is going to be a tragedy; you can feel the cold and darkness coming, see the net drawing tight around the characters who live and breathe on the pages.” – Cassandra Clare
